Ban the Use of Aborted Babies in Fetal Tissue Experiments

Passage of the National Institutes of Health Revitalization Act of 1993 lifted the federal ban on the performance of fetal tissue transplant experiments using the victims of induced abortion. Since then, shocking evidence confirms that abortion clinics, medical schools, university research laboratories and pharmaceutical companies are trafficking in the organs and bodies of aborted babies, some of whom are aborted alive and then killed for their organs. These activities cannot be condoned by a civilized, compassionate society.

Therefore, we, as Delegates to the (insert type of convention such as pct., district, state, etc.) Convention of the Republican Party of , (insert name of state), urge Congress to pass legislation banning research on fetal tissue obtained from induced abortions and providing stiff fines and criminal penalties for violations of such a law.
