

HELP AMERICA REMEMBER THE 55 MILLION BABIES WHO WERE NEVER BORN!

When people want to express their sorrow for tragic deaths, they often bring symbols of their grief to the sites of the deaths, including candles, flowers and messages. When children are killed, those symbols often include stuffed animals and balloons, such as for the recent school massacre in Newtown.

To commemorate the 55 million pre-born babies who were aborted before they could even take a breath, pro-lifers can remember those innocent babes by placing flowers, balloons and stuffed animals at the abortuaries across America on Jan. 22, the 40th anniversary of the Roe v. Wade decision.

SUGGESTIONS

- ✓ Locate an abortion facility near you. (Google can give addresses nearby.)
- ✓ On Tuesday, Jan. 22, take a stuffed animal, flowers, or balloons and place outside the facility. (Do NOT trespass, but use public property such as sidewalks if necessary.)
- ✓ Consider a silent prayer vigil during the day, holding your symbols.
- ✓ If questioned as to why you are doing this, gently relate that it is in memory of the 55 million babies on this anniversary of that infamous Supreme Court decision. Do not get into arguments, but prayerfully maintain your vigil for as long as you can be at the death site.
